

You have a role in DAMAGE PREVENTION!

Nebraska contractors, municipal entities, emergency response groups, underground utility owners and operators, one call centers, regulators and others all have a stake in preventing damage to critical underground services and facilities.

If you serve in any function during excavation activity, you have a role in the shared responsibility that comes with underground damage prevention.

In the spirit of shared responsibility, the Nebraska Regional Common Ground Alliance provides an effective “local” forum to discuss best practices in damage prevention.

The success of the Nebraska Regional CGA comes from the participation of all Nebraska Stakeholders involved in Underground Facilities. Our focus is to bring together a collaborative effort among all industries to ensure public safety, environmental protection and effective damage prevention practices.
